VALUE OF FLORIDA.

The following extract from a Jamaica paper is well worthy the attention of the United States. Feathers will show how the wind blows.

To the Editor of the Jamaica Colonial Journal.

Sir—The anxious desire of the United States to obtain possession of the province of East Florida, which from being the key of the gulf of Florida, will lay the commerce of the Spanish colonies, in time of war, entirely at their mercy, is sufficiently well known; and our Jamaica planters and merchants ought to look to themselves, as they have certainly the most serious cause of alarm at the prospect of East Florida falling into the hands of the United States.—

It would be a measure of sound policy, were the Spanish government to cede the Floridas to Great Britain; and to induce the British government to desire the acquisition, it is proper to mention, that they would furnish it with a regular supply of naval stores, such as pitch, tar, turpentine, masts and ship plank; with live oak of the greatest magnitude, for ship building, with which the provinces abound. There is another circumstance which ought to have a great weight. As the British would thus acquire the exclusive possession of live oak, the Americans would be thereby excluded from its use in forming a durable navy, and be obliged to use their own worthless oak, which will not last above six or seven years, at the expiration of which period, they must be at the enormous expence of renewing their whole fleet.

Live-oak is a wood of such extraordinary durability, that after the trees have been exposed to the changes and inclemency of the seasons for upwards of a century, it acquires a steely hardness, and will resist the edge of the best tempered steel. The government of the United States are acquainted with its value; their first frigates were built of this wood, from trees collected in South Carolina and Georgia; they also procured frames for ten or twelve seventy fours, which were deposited in their arsenal, but were wisely destroyed by Sir Alexander Cochrane. There are now only a few scattered trees in Carolina and Georgia; perhaps sufficient to build a frigate.

In the peninsula of East Florida, there is one of the best and most secure harbors in America, which will receive from fifty to one hundred sail of the line.

I am induced to hope that these observations will not escape the attention of government, and the Jamaica planters and merchants.

An Old Officer.

CLAIMS ON HAYTI.

It will be recollected by the publick, and especially by those interested, that the Congress frigate, Capt. Morris, was ordered to Cape Henry last summer, to make a demand for the payment of property seized and sequestered in 1810 and 1811 by the Emperor and King of Hayti; but owing to a wrong direction of the despatches, it proved unsuccessful. It is therefore to be hoped, that Congress will make another attempt, and the writer of this knows, from the authority of Christophe's secretary; that if a proper application was made the money would be immediately paid; and as it will relieve many worthy individuals, no doubt the government will be disposed to attend to it. [Boston Gaz.

LATEST FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

Kingston, (Jam.) Dec. 24—We have received Caracas Gazettes to the 13th inst. from which we have copied some articles, principally regarding the operations carried on in South America.

Curracoa, Dec. 6—By way of St. Thomas we learn that, the Independent chief Gen. Manuel Piar, was publicly executed in Guayana, on the sixteenth of October, pursuant to sentence passed upon him by a Supreme Court Martial, of which Admiral Brion was president, for crimes of insubordination, desertion and high treason. He was accused by his own troops, and the criminal confessed his guilt

A private letter from St. Thomas, dated Nov 28, says, "It has been supposed by some people, that Gen. Zaraza would embrace the advantages held out in the Indulto to the disaffected, and join the Royal standard: for this purpose Gen. Morillo lately sent a mission to him, by means of a priest named Sutil, accompanied by a young son of Zaraza, on whom Morillo had previously conferred the rank of ensign, offering through the medium of the priest, to make Zaraza a brigadier if he would go over with his troops to the standard of the King. To which proposal Zaraza made the following reply:

"Not until I behold my wife and unfortunate children, cruelly murdered by the legions of Gen. Morillo, restored to life again, shall I desist from the noble undertaking and glorious strife in which I am now engaged, against the tyrants of their country, & the assassins of their innocent posterity." Having said these words, he handed a sword to his son, who scorning the rank which was given him, merely for the sake of necessity or convenience, grasped the weapon, "with which," his father said, "you must defend the rights of your country, and avenge the death of your mother and brethren.

A letter from Guayana of a recent date, says—"Since the capture of the vast province of Guayana, and since the disturbances were quelled, which were resuscitated by Gen. Piar, the Aurora of peace has made its bright appearance on that large and fertile continent; the wise measures subsequently taken to set in motion all the engines of public felicity, which are particularly agriculture and commerce, promise the happiest result; and we will soon have to glory in the possession of a country distinguished by nature, where justice may establish its empire, peace its reign, and order its dominion.

DESULTORY GLEANINGS.

We have supposed that under this title might be given a collection of miscellaneous extracts which would be productive of some amusement to our readers.

THE SWISS GUIDE.

By Robert Southey, Esq.

Mr. Southey, while travelling in Switzerland, was attended by a guide of the name of John Roth. On his quitting him, the guide requested a character, when the poet gave him the following;—in consequence of which John Roth has become the most popular guide in Switzerland, and is inquired for by all travellers, one of whom he permitted to take a copy of his poetical character.—Galaxy

By my troth, this John Roth
Is an excellent guide;
A joker, a smoker,
And a Savant beside;
A Geologician,
A Metaphysician,
Who searches how causes proceed—
A System-Inventor,
An Experimenter,
Who raises potatoes from seed!
Each forest and fell
He knoweth full well;
The chatlets and dwellers therein;
The mountains, the fountains,
The ices, the prices.
Every town, every village, and inn,
Take him for your guide,
He has often been tried,
And will always be useful when needed;
In fair or foul weather,
You'll be merry together,
And shake hands at parting, as we did.

George Alexander Stevens, author of The Storm, Lecture on Heads &c. is well known to the lovers of frolic and whim. The following letter written by him to Dr. Miller of Doncaster, exhibits one of the happiest talents a man can possess, that of being merry under the pressure of misfortune; that which enables a man to keep out of it, should be placed in the superlative degree.

Yarmouth Goal.

Dear sir,

When I parted from you at Doncaster, I imagined long before this, to have met with some oddities worth acquainting you with. It is grown a fashion of late to write lives. I have now and for a long time have had, leisure enough to write mine, but want materials for the latter part of it; for my existence now cannot properly be called living, but what the painters term still-life; having since February 13 been confined in this town goal for a London debt. As a hunted deer is always shunned by the happier herd, so am I deserted by the company, my share taken off, and no support left me; save what my wife can spare out of hers.

Deserted at my utmost need,
By those my former bounty fed

With an economy, which till now I was a stranger to, I have made shift hitherto to victual my little garrison; but then it has been with the aid of my good friends and allies—my clothes. This week's eating finishes my last waistcoat; and next I must atone for my errors on bread and water.

Themistocles had many towns to furnish his table; and a whole city bore the charge of his meals. In some respects I am like him, for I am furnished by the labours of a multitude. A wig has fed me two days; the trimmings of a waistcoat as long; a pair of velvet breeches paid my washerwoman, and a ruffled shirt has found me in shaving; my coats I swallowed by degrees—the sleeves I have breakfasted upon for weeks—the body, skirts &c. served me for dinner two months; my silk stockings have paid my lodgings, and two pair of new pumps enabled me to smoke several pipes. It is incredible how my appetite (barometer like) rises in proportion as my necessities make their terrible advances. I here could say something droll about a stomach; but it is ill jesting with edge-tools, and I am sure that's the sharpest thing about me. You may think I can have no sense of my condition, that while I am thus wretched, I should offer at ridicule; But, Sir people constitutioned like me, with a disproportionate levity of spirits, are always most merry when they are most miserable, and, quicken like the eyes of the consumptive, which are always brightest the nearer the patient approaches to dissolution. However, Sir, to shew you that I am not entirely lost to all reflection, I think myself poor enough to want a favor, and humble enough to ask it—Here, Sir, I might make an encomium on your good nature and humanity &c. but I shall not pay so bad a compliment to your understanding, as to endeavor by a parade of phrases, to win it over to my interest. If you could, any night at a concert, make a small collection for me, it might be a means of obtaining my liberty; and you well know Sir, the first people of rank abroad will perform the most friendly offices for the sick: Be not therefore offended at the request of a poor (though deservedly punished) debtor.

Ibid.

Early History.—A Naraganset Indian was formerly deputised by his tribe to represent them in some claim or petition to the government of the province, at Boston: but either his credentials not being admitted, or the claim not complied with, "our red brother" became so insolent and troublesome, that the magistrates ordered him a whipping. The report of this issue of his mission out-stripped him in his return: so that when he came home, his constituents with an arch countenance inquired of him how he liked Boston. Ah! replied he, Boston folks are full of notions—which incident was the origin of that common saying.

INTERESTING.

Extract from Bell's London Messenger.

"Our relations with America have become so important, or at least in a progress of becoming so, that we shall defer our considerations of them to an opportunity when we can discuss them by themselves. Mr. Monroe is a man of great talents and activity, and his movements are not without an object. We think that the point of difference will be the affairs of Spanish Independence. We conceive that we feel as strongly as any one, for the true glory of this country; but it has always been our opinion, and we know it personally to be that of one of the greatest statesman this country ever produced, that Halifax, Canada &c. are not worth what they would eventually cost England; and that the true point of wisdom would be to make the best bargain we could for them to the United States. Go they must; and it is better to let them go, before another debt of eight hundred millions be added to this country.

London, Dec. 8.

Union-Hall.—Curious Case.—On Saturday James Brown was charged before the Magistrate, with conveying a quantity of spirituous liquors into the King's Bench prison, contrary to the Act of Parliament, on Friday night. It appeared by the evidence of Mr. Morris, one of the turnkeys, that the prisoner had but one natural leg; his other leg being made of wood, was constructed in such a manner that between the stump of the thigh and the upper part of the wooden leg a cavity was formed, in which articles of considerable size could be deposited. The liquor in question was put in a bladder, and the bladder was concealed in the cavity; but the contrivance did not escape the argus eyes of Mr. Morris, by whom the prisoner was secured and searched. The prisoner said, that he was not aware of the illegality of the attempt: he had a friend confined for debt in the Bench, who was very ill, and that it was for him the liquor was intended. The prisoner was convicted and adjudged to pay 10*l.* which not being able to pay, he was committed to prison for 14 days.

The rapidity with which the British system of education is prosecuted in France almost exceeds belief. No less than 250 general and central schools are established in the different departments. One at Bordeaux contains 500 children. The Duchess of Duras has established one in Paris for 150, and the Duke of Orleans another at Neuilly for 100 poor children, on their own private expenses.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1818.

It was erroneously stated in our paper of Tuesday last, that the committee on the subject had reported against taxing the U. S. Bank and its branch in this state. From the names of those who advocate that tax, there is a strong probability that it will be imposed.

A committee of the House of Representatives of this state have agreed unanimously to recommend the establishment of a Penitentiary in this city.

State Capitol.—The bill for erecting a state capitol, was on the 23d ult. recommitted to a grand committee, consisting of a member from each county. The committee have reported a bill, which provides that the governor, the secretary of the commonwealth, the auditor general, Robert Harris, Esq. and gen. John Forster, shall be commissioners to agree upon a plan, and authorises the governor to contract for the erection of the building. $125,000 are appropriated, to be drawn in instalments, as the work advances. Har. Rep.

Dickinson College.—The senate have passed a bill for the relief of Dickinson college, and sent it to the House for concurrence. The 1st section grants the college 2000 dollars immediately, to be applied to the payment of the debts against the college. The 2d section releases the college from the payment of any debt or debts heretofore contracted to the commonwealth.—The 3d section grants the college an annuity of 2000 dollars a year for ten years, to be applied to the maintenance of professors and teachers. The 4th section requires the trustees to make an annual report to the legislature of the situation of the college, &c. and appoints the governor, the chief justice, and the attorney general, trustees ex officio. ib.

By a census of the Slaves in the different Parishes in the Island of Jamaica, published last December, it appears that there are, 172.589 Males, and 172,663 Females—total 345,252. There being a difference between the sexes of only 74, in so large a population.

NASHVILLE, January, 24.

Gen. Jackson left this place on the 22d inst. for fort Scott, to take command of the Army intended to subdue the Semi-noleIndians &c.

The thousand mounted volunteers required of W. Ten. are ordered to rendezvous at Fayeteville on the 31st inst. The 1st regiment will be commanded by col. W. H. Dyer, lieut. cols. Gibson and Mitchell, majors Jetton and Lewis.—The 2d regiment, by col. Thomas Williamson, lieut. colonels Elliot and Phillips, majors Martin and Ellis.

A handsome company commanded by Capt. Dunlap, composed of young men of Nashville and its vicinity, accompany the major-general as his life guard. The promptitude with which they equipped themselves for service is highly commendable.

The following exquisitely touching paragraph is copied from the Washington City Gazette. It is worth columns of the pointless effusions, to which most editors of newspapers are obliged to have recourse, to eke out their dreary papers.

We have been informed that several of the revolutionary officers at present in this city, intend paying a visit to Mount Vernon, where the remains of Gen. WASHINGTON are deposited. We can scarcely conceive a scene more truly interesting to the feelings of the American people than that of these aged warriors of liberty bending, in sorrowful veneration, over the tomb of a hero, with whom, forty years ago, they were companions in arms. It would be a subject that might well employ the talents of West. True Amer.

A Merry Bankrupt.—The following advertisement is copied from the Rochester (Genesee county) Gazette. The Bankrupt, on the occasion of stopping payment, methinks feels in a merrier mood, than most of his creditors.

"Look out for Breakers!—As it looks rather squally ahead, I have concluded to bear up to, and bring my ship to anchor: so all hands ahoy! Mate, Boatswain, Cook, Steward, and all others concerned in the distribution of the prize money, be careful to assemble in Capt. Mack's cabin, on Thursday evening next, at 7 o'clock, to hear my final determination.

Rochester, 20*th Jan.* 1818.

The St. Lawrence Steam Boats.

A Montreal paper of the 17th ult. mentions, that the Steam Boats were in a perilous situation, in consequence of the unexpected breaking up of the river. The floating ice had driven ashore the Lady Sherbrook, the Malsham, and the Caledonia.—The Car of Commerce was yet safe at her moorings, but the Swift-sure was sunk to the waters edge.

A fine haul.—A person named Joseph Bond was apprehended on Saturday evening, the 17th ult. at Albany, having in his possession near 3000 dollars in counterfeit bills. The bills were on the Bank of Columbia, the Farmer's and Mechanics' Bank of Pittsburgh, and the Westmoreland Bank of Pennsylvania, and are all fives, tens and three dollars. Bond says the bills were put in his possession by a person to be delivered to an accessary in Albany; he refused to mention any name; that the paper and bills were made in Canada.

WASHINGTON, January 31.

Every man of feeling and common honesty will rejoice to hear that a bill was yesterday reported, read twice and committed, for the relief, (so it is called) but I say for doing justice to major general Arthur St. Clair. I hear that the sum adjudged to him by the committee is 5,500 dollars. If that sum were trebled to him it could neither recall nor atone for the sufferings and domestic incommodations which the detention from him of his just rights for so many years brought upon him and his family, nor expunge from the character of our past councils one shade of the black stain their treatment of this veteran has dyed into them, in the very grain. If it be only justice to pay his money now, it was injustice to refuse it to him for so many years. I hope that this congress will continue in the honorable course in which it has set out of wiping out old shames.

Under our head will be found the report of the committee on Naval affairs from the Senate, respecting the memorial of certain officers while stationed in the Mediterranean. In a former number we suggested that Congress could not make a special interference in the case spoken of—the committee have declared in express words, that they have no power to reach the case, that the corrective is vested in the chief Magistrate. Believing as we do that there was "something rotten in the Mediteranean," as well as in Denmark, we trust that the President will apply the necessary caustic. In a few days we shall receive the proceedings of the Court Martial 'till which time we shall forbear from making further remarks. Nat. Mess.

A letter from Madrid of the 11th November, received at Newburyport, says—"Matters are not very secure here.—Should any serious disaster befall the royal cause in Mexico, I would not insure Ferdinand's crown for a Seville orange."

Nothing new is heard from the imperial resident of St. Helena. It may be proper here to notice a circumstance that displays in a strong light the deep knowledge which Buonaparte possesses of the human character. Warden asserts in his book a declaration of the emperor, that sir Robert Wilson's agency in the escape of his friend Lavalette, was but the commencement of the conversion of that officer: that sir Robert would shortly endeavor to vindicate his character from the report circulated by that officer of his having poisoned his troops at Jaffa. More than a year has elapsed since this prophecy was uttered, and Sir Robert has at last accomplished the prediction.—He has published a book in which he has defended the character of the French emperor, and even endeavors to palliate his conduct for having ordered poison to be administered to his troops.

Baltimore Fed. Rep.

HARRISBURGH, Jan. 29.

Mr. Hill called up an item of unfinished business appearing on the journals of the late house. page 720, 721, &c. relating to the report of the committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of the Court of Lancaster county, in a decision given by them in an action of trespass brought by Robert W. Houston, a delinquent militia man, against the president & members of a court martial, &c. Mr. Hill said, that if we were to judge from the conduct of the court of Lancaster, in some cases, we would suppose it had done every thing that a court could do, contrary to what courts were intended for. He moved to have the subject referred to the same committee that the memorial of John Wilson was referred.

Mr. Clarke, from the committee appointed for that purpose, reported in favour of a new county out of parts of Beaver and Butler counties.

A letter received by a gentlemen in Washington city, from a friend at Blakely, in Alabama, under the date of December 9, gives a flattering account, of the settlements and improvements of that country. The writer is confident that Blakely will possess greater advantages for business than Mobile; A confidence which is very much at war with the views we have heard expressed on this subject. The writer is a merchant, who has sold within two days dry goods to the amount of 4000 dollars. This is certainly driving a brisk trade. "The crop of cotton" says the writer, "is very fine this season; price 25 to 28 cents Notwithstanding the number of vessels and great quantity of goods that have arrived here, we think there will not be a sufficient quantity to last until another season, the population up the river being beyond calculation, and the Huntsville and Tennessee merchants depending on us for most of their supplies. ——— Nat. Int.

From an English Paper

Remarkable instance of presence of mind in an English Sailor at the battle of Algiers.

Mr. Stenhouse, surgeon of the Glasgow frigate, relates the following anecdote.—The captain of his foretop on his leg being wounded, so that only a small portion of skin kept it connected with the thigh, with the view of obtaining surgical aid as soon as possible, grasped a rope by which to lower himself upon deck. When he had descended about half way from the foretop, the mangled limb over which he could not possible have any control, became so entangled among the flying ropes, that he was under the necessity of hauling himself upwards nearly three feet, that he might disengage it with the asssistance of the sound one, while he was hanging by his arm in the air, and with a shower of shot and shells flying round him. At length having accomplished his end, he descended quietly upon deck. When placed in the cockpit, and waiting till Mr. Stenhouse had completed the amputation of an arm in which he was then engaged, the death of the bugleman, whose wife was at this time in the cockpit was announced. The poor woman was immediately thrown into a violent paroxysm of grief, and while she was bewailing her loss, the wounded captain of the top, with much composure and naivete, called out—"Come Poll, leave off your blubbering—you shall not be a widow long: I will marry you myself directly, as soon as I am well." He has since performed his promise.

A Statement laid before the emperor of Russia relative to the condition of Moscow, shews that since the retreat of the French there have been built or repaired in that city, churches and buildings destined for divine worship 348; dwelling houses 3137 of stone and 5551 of wood; booths and shops 5102 and 447 of wood. The present population of Moscow is 312000, of whom 197,182 are males, and 114,818 females.

MARRIED, on Thursday evening last, by the Rev. Francis Herron, Mr. JAMES RIDDLE to Miss MARY M'KNICKLE, all of this city.

DIED, on Friday evening last, in the 56th year of his age GEORGE ROBINSON, Esq. Associate Judge of the courts of Common Pleas &c. for this county.

ENLARGEMENT.

We have contemplated publishing the Gazette upon paper of super royal size, with type entirely new, on an improved press, and, as heretofore, twice a week, if the plan should meet the approbation of the generality of our patrons. This would require the subscription price to be encreased from three to four dollars per annum, and that to be in all cases paid in advance.—The habits of the people and the circumstances of the times make it impossible to conduct a paper here, even with a large establishment, unless we determine to set out with a rigid adherence to this rule. With regard to the proposed enlargement, we shall give our subscribers time to consider and communicate their opinions upon the measure. If, before the first of June next, we find a sufficient number in favour of the plan, we shall then commence publishing a paper of the size and upon the terms which we have mentioned; at all events the above regulation in regard to payment must be adopted.

Our advertising custom, though necessary for our support, is already too great for our limits; and is daily encroaching upon that portion of our paper which we would wish to devote to useful and interesting matter. Pieces of any considerable length, though generally the most valuable, are excluded of course; and presently, with a paper of this size, we would be compelled to give only the most slight notices of the most important affairs. In a paper of super royal size, we could give at least twice as much general matter as we insert in this. We believe that the generality of our subscribers are too well aware of the incalculable value of their newspapers, as the common medium for the communication of universal knowledge, and the sine qua non of every politician and man of business for them to disapprove the plan and the improvement we have suggested.

A CARD.

☞POSTMASTERS, and others in the country who may receive the NEW ENGLAND GALAXY, with a few of the preceding numbers, are respectfully solicited to become agents for the publisher, and to use their exertions to obtain subscribers. If this should be inconsistent with their feelings or convenience, they will confer a favour by handing the paper to some other person, who may feel sufficient interest in the success of the establishment to lend his aid towards attaining it.

CONDITIONS.

The Galaxy is published every Friday afternoon.

The price is THREE DOLLARS a year, payable in advance, from distant subscribers; and no subscriptions received for a less term than six months.

Agents who procure and become accountable for Ten Subscribers, shall be entitled to a copy gratis.

Subscribers may receive complete sets of the paper from the commencement of its publication.

LIVERY STABLE.

(Wood street, between Diamond alley & Fifth-st)

George Steward,

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of this city and its vicinity, that he has opened a Livery Stable, where he intends to carry it on in a manner calculated to do justice to himself and accommodate all others who may please to give him a call, having altered his stable expressly for the purpose, which is inferior to none in the place. He also intends to keep good riding horses to hire—calculated for journeys of any length. Having procured careful managers to superintend the business, he will be enabled to give general satisfaction.

Good saddles and bridles in every case shall be furnished, necessary for the comfort of the rider—when thus caparisoned it is presumed that justice will be done to horses, so justly their due.

Terms of hire and other affairs relative to the establishment, made known at the time of hiring.

He has also laid in an excellent quantity of oats and hay, and feed of every description.

Gentlemen committing horses to his care, may rest assured of unremitting attention in every particular.

THE HARMONY

INSTITUTE,

AND

Seminary for Education.

THE subscriber, grateful for the flattering encouragement which this Institute has received since the establishment of the school for young ladies, now begs leave very respectfully to inform the public that he has appropriated a very large and convenient building in another part of this healthful and pleasantly situated town, for the education of the other sex, which was opened for the reception of pupils the first of January inst.

Terms are as follows, viz.

One hundred and fifty dollars per annum, for scholars in the classes of reading, writing, arithmetic, book keeping, English grammar, history, geography and astronomy, including boarding, washing, books and stationary.

Two hundred dollars per annum, for scholars in the following classes, viz.—Mathematics, Natural history, the Latin, Greek, German and French languages, including boarding and washing. Payable quarterly in advance.

The subscriber is happy to inform the public that the Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Pittsburgh, has accepted the situation of Teacher of the Mathematics and the Classic languages in this establishment. The abilities of this gentleman are too well known throughout the continent to, require commendation.

With respect to the other departments, teachers of competent qualifications, are also provided. And it is in contemplation, should public encouragement warrant it, to make arrangements, that during the ensuing summer, lectures on Botany, Chemistry and Mineralogy, will be given.

The ESTABLISHMENT will be conducted on the following plan.

A. LANGUAGES.

1. English—in different classes, according to the state and progress of the pupils.
2. German and French—each in two classes—the principles of grammar, composition, and speaking
3. Latin, in three classes—principles of Grammar, lectures on the classics—writing and composition.
4. Greek—in two classes—grammar practice and reading.

B. SCIENCES.

1. Moral and Natural Theology.
2. Mathematics—in four classes, including Arithmetic, book keeping, surveying, and navigation.
3. Geography, in two classes—Theory and Application.
4. Astronomy,
5. History—Ancient and Modern,
6. Natural Philosophy,
7. Natural History,
8. Botany,

} each in a class

C. THE FINE ARTS.

1. Writing,
2. Drawing, in three classes—the Plant, the Landscape and the Figure.
3. Architecture—one class,
4. Music, in two classes—Vocal and Instrumental.

As a stimulus to exertion, rewards and honorary distinctions, will be conferred in proportion to merit and improvement displayed at each annual examination, of which timely notice will be given to parents, guardians and others, who may feel interested in witnessing the expanding powers of the youthful mind.

As no literary attainment, however great, can yield happiness to the individual, or render him a worthy member of society, unless accompanied with well grounded moral and religious principles, particular attention shall be paid to a matter of so much importance. A strict watch shall be kept over the manners and morals of the pupils.

The health, cleanliness and comfort of the pupils, shall also be an object of constant attention.

A medical practitioner has engaged to reside in the place, to visit the schools, to ascertain the health of the scholars, and afford professional assistance whenever it shall be requisite—for which each scholar will be charged at the rate of five dollars per annum.

Parents and guardians who are desirous of securing to their children the advantages offered by this institution, will have the goodness to apply to

JACOB SCHNEE,
Minister of the Gospel, and President of the Harmony Institute.

N. B. The young ladies seminary is still open for the reception of pupils.

Valuable Real estate for sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased

I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,

The Farm on which he resided

On the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brooke County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which is good meadow land. The buildings consist in two log dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River five miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of his farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.
